Re: I have been wondering

When did 12 noon become 12pm?

Why do baseball announcers say “so and so is batting 262 on the year” instead of “for the year”?

Why is the important stuff always in the smallest print?

Why do drug commercials always have annoying background music?

Why are word processing documents designed by kids with eagle eye vision?

Why doesn't anybody make a car for a 6'6" person he can get in without knocking his cap off?

Why are scientific talks like moving pictures with more slides than you read?

Why is everything getting smaller on my computer screen?

Why do TV baseball announcers talk so much?

How can you save by spending?

Am I really better protected against breaches now that my institution requires me to change my computer password every six months?

When weather people report “feels like” temperatures how do they know how I feel?

How does a driver carry no cash?

How long is momentary?

How do you preboard a plane?
