

trialsmeinertsway.com

The ability to express thoughts and beliefs is a gift unique to humans. What we have to say fills libraries and screens in theaters and on electronic devices.

I have done my fair share of writing. Not necessarily what a person who had to take remedial English to be admitted to the University of Minnesota should be doing.

The majority of my efforts have been concentrated on writing manuscripts and on textbooks related to clinical trials. Both forms of writing are staid and encumbering such that any joy one gets from writing is long sucked out by endless revisions.

My website trialsmeinertsway.com was created in 2001 basically as a filing “cabinet” for a series of memos I wrote on table making. They accounted for most of the postings in 2001. As of September 2020 there have been 339 postings and counting.

Postings

2001 - 05	109
2006 - 10	9
2011 - 15	96
2016 - 2018	63
2019 - September 2020	62
Total postings	339

Postings by contents

Good practice policies and procedures (GPPP)	40
Presentation and publication policies	13
Stratification, subgrouping, and quotafication	5
Treatment effects monitoring	11
Word essays	28
Data collection & sharing	14
Guidelines, rules, suggestions & reminders	33
Musings & rants	76
Other miscellaneous	119
